

Indro Student Alum Showcase - Year 11

Deborah Melloy

Deborah graduated from Indro in 2004.

She studied a Bachelor of Business at UQ, and is currently completing her Masters of Business Administration.

Deborah has worked in fundraising and marketing roles in nonprofit organisations for the past 8 years and is currently Philanthropy and Partnerships Manager at Foodbank Queensland.

Yazz Krishna

Yazz graduated from Indro in 2003.

Yazz founded Five Faces in 2010 as Australia's first cloud-based digital signage platform with a focus on the retail/hospitality market. This evolved into a complete digital solution platform for enhancing customer experiences in the physical store.

Max Wiens

Max graduated from Indro in 2004.

Max has studied Psychology at UQ, USQ, and QUT. He is a registered Psychologist who has worked in youth alcohol and drug, early psychosis, and private practice.

He is currently the Clinical Team Leader for the Youth Severe and Complex team across several Headspace centres.

James McIntosh

James was School Captain when he graduated from Indro in 1992.

He completed an Engineering degree from UQ in 1996, took a wrong turn into postgraduate study, but ultimately became an Engineer in the automotive industry.

He returned to Brisbane in 2005 to become a manufacturing consultant and trainer, and in 2015 also purchased a manufacturing business.

Kate Feeney

Kate Feeney began her media career while at university in 2007, joining the brisbanetimes.com.au as their relationship blogger. She live blogged Queensland floods of 2011 and the 2011 Royal Wedding for the Fairfax network.

After working as contributor on the Today show, Kate moved to Channel Nine in 2013, covering general news and state politics.

In 2017 Kate took up a position with ABC Radio Brisbane. She has presented the state-wide Afternoons program since
